

WHAT? WHO? WHY?

A Score or So of Questions,
With Some Cynical Answers.

What is Reputation?—The estimate your neighbors entertain of your wealth and social position.

Who is your Neighbor?—Any one received in good society.

Should you love your Neighbor?—Certainly—in proportion to the esteem he temporarily enjoys.

What is Fashion?—The latest frivolity practiced by the smallest number.

Why should we follow Fashion?—That I may be recognized as one of the "right sort."

How are you to know what is the Fashion?—By consulting dressmakers and imitating notorious Parisian sottobrettes.

What is Religion?—An outward profession of inward respectability.

What is the right Religion?—The one that affords you the best opportunities of consorting with the most prominent people.

What is Faith?—A firm conviction that Providence favors you individually above all other human beings, whether past, present or to come.

What is Hope?—An ardent desire of obtaining whatever you may wish for, whatever its character.

What is Charity?—Assisting those who may, directly or indirectly, be in any way useful to you hereafter.

What is Prudence?—Doing whatever you please without compromising your self publicly.

What is Justice?—Strongly condemning the slightest failings of others, while readily condoning our own most infamous iniquities.

What is Fortitude?—Enduring wealth and prosperity without excessive complaint.

What is Temperance?—Never so overdoing anything that it may entail regrettable consequences.

What is Understanding?—A just appreciation of the ever-varying social values of your friends and acquaintances.

What is Knowledge?—Whom to ask to dinner, and whom not to.

Which are the seven social works of Mercy?

1. To feed the overfed.
2. To give drink to the half-drunken.
3. To clothe the luxuriously.
4. To entertain the prosperous.
5. To take tea with the titled.
6. To visit the prominent.
7. To bury the reputations of the living.

Which are the eight social Beatitudes?

1. Blessed are the millionaires; for they shall see royalty.
2. Blessed are the overbearing; for they shall be esteemed at their own valuation.
3. Blessed are they that mourn without cause; for they shall be comforted.
4. Blessed are the satisfied; for they shall have their fill.
5. Blessed are they that have not been found out; for they shall obtain mercy.
6. Blessed are the malicious; for they shall rejoice.
7. Blessed are the avaricious; for they shall possess the land.
8. Blessed are the merciless; for they shall be respected.

What is Humanity?—A virtue we occasionally assume, but seldom possess.

What is Meekness?—Bearing injuries patiently till we can effectively retaliate.

What is Brotherly Love?—The affection we display towards our prosperous neighbor.

What is Poverty?—The one unpardonable crime.—London Truth.

A TRAVEL-WORN POSTAL.

The travels of the world-circling postal card that, in passing between two residents of this city, had to cover 28,000 miles to satisfy the curiosity of the sender has led to a new order in the United States postal regulations.

Postal cards addressed to go around the world are excluded from circulation in the mails.

This is the new rule, which means that the postal authorities of the world will not be made the butt of jokers. A protest of the English Government led to its enactment.

It seems that a gentleman in this city was anxious to see how long it would take a postal to girdle the world, and what would be the route taken. An international postal card was purchased and mailed in this city, addressed to the sender at his residence in Philadelphia, via New York, Liverpool, Pailas, Paris, Marseilles and Naples, with the information on the back of it that the card had been started around the world. After an absence of exactly four months the card reached the sender here, and the course taken by it was an interesting one.

Every post office through which the card passed had its postmark stamped upon it, and it bore evidence that every post office official throughout its entire course who handled the card took as much interest in the affair as did the sender in this city. After leaving Naples the card started across Italy to Brindisi, thence across the Archipelago to Venice, thence across to Constantinople, Alexandria, Cairo, Suez, through the Red Sea, Gulf of Aden and Arabian Sea to Bombay, thence to Calcutta, from there down the Bay of Bengal, up through the China Sea to Hongkong, over to Honolulu, and thence across the Pacific to San Francisco, to Denver, to Philadelphia. The entire distance traveled by the card was between 27,000 and 28,000 miles.

So successful was the postal strip that many others soon emulated the Philadelphia and started to test the efficiency of the world's mails. There was a perfect flood of globe trouters in fact, and Britain entered protest.—[Philadelphia Record.]

Pineapple Plantations.

George Alba, who returned from a trip through the Indian river section recently, says that the pineapple culture in the Eden section and thereabout is one of the best paying industries in the State.

Those who are engaged in the cultivation of pines to any extent are becoming rich fast. A pineapple plantation is one of the easiest things on earth to work. No labor is required after the slips are in until harvest time. There are thousands of acres of choice pineapple land on the east coast, but the best is being secured. The acreage in pines this year is double that of last year.—St. Augustine (Fla.) News.

IN THE BASE BALL SEASON.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

The trouble all arose over one breakfast. It may be that they knew he hated base ball, or it may be that their talk resulted from the fact that every man, woman and child in the boarding house, with the exception of the lank pessimist, had been to the game the day before.

At any rate, when the landlady took the coffee pot in one hand and the cream pitcher in the other and began pouring from both at the same time he was moved to ask, without a suspicion of danger, what she was doing.

"Making a double play unassisted," was her prompt response. He looked pained, but said nothing.

A moment later, when a codfish ball was gallantly declined by the dude, who insisted on passing it to his fair neighbor, the dry goods clerk on the other side of the table called out:

"Passed ball!"

The pessimist fingered his knife nervously as he glared at the clerk, and had hardly recovered his composure when the waitress kicked the cat through the doorway, and the pretty typewriter lisped:

"Put out!"

And the young lawyer added:

"Safe hit!"

He had hardly had time to shift his reproachful glance from the pretty typewriter to the young lawyer when the old maid began telling what a brute the man next door was and the real estate agent sang out:

"Score one!"

For sympathy he turned to the landlady's pretty daughter, who sat next to him, and who had so far said nothing. But as he declined the last muffin on the plate and she took it she looked him straight in the eye, and with her most captivating smile said:

"A sacrifice!"

Then he got up and stalked out, and there is a room to rent in that boarding house.

"BE TRUEST WOMAN."

Plain Talk to Pretty Girls—How to Treat Young Men.

Treat all young men as you would like to have other girls treat your own brothers.

Do not reserve all your smiles and brilliancy for the opposite sex to the exclusion of your own.

Do not lead him to think that you admire him when you do not.

Never permit a young man to speak sneeringly of the unfortunate or aged.

Avoid any young man who does not respect and cherish his mother.

If circumstances compel you to entertain a young man alone be very sure to convince him that your ideals of womanhood and manhood are equally high.

In short, my dear Beth,

Be truest woman, kind yet shy, Holding your birthright clear and high; In youth or age the crown is yours to choose.

The jewels Truth and Honor neither dim nor lose.

—Kate Tannatt Woods, in Ladies' Home Journal.

The Salt Lake Tribune claims that, notwithstanding the belief in polygamy is far from uprooted in the Mormon Church, and there are still saints in high standing who believe in it, even to the extent of practice, having wives in Utah and Wyoming at the same time. The Tribune denies emphatically that polygamy is a "dead issue" in Utah politics.

New York Morning Advertiser: "Do you ever make false excuses to your employer in the baseball season?" asked the merchant of the young applicant.

"No, sir; I take no interest in baseball."

"You may go, sir," returned the merchant. "I don't want you. I prefer a liar to a hypocrite."

There are now 1,200 varieties of candies, averaging in price from five cents a pound for gumdrops to $1 and over for creams, etc. One firm in New York alone is said by a good authority to do business to the amount of $1,000,000 a year, and the entire business of the country is estimated at from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000.

Toledo News: What does the phrase "He isn't in it" come from?" asks a subscriber. According to the best authorities it is attributed to Noah, who used the remark derisively in referring to some profane person who had criticized the building of the ark.
